

Guest Highlight

Algernon Pitts

...taking a bite out of homelessness

People make it happen!

Our Mission

Empowering people who are homeless to move to economic and personal self sufficiency

Even a talented chef with a leading catering company and 37 years of experience can become homeless.

A week before Christmas 2008 Algernon lost his job — and wasn't able to find work for most of 2009. He turned to the Crossroads Renewal Project for help with food, medical care, clothing and transportation — he's especially grateful for Dominic, Clyde and Al "They're there to help people wanting to help themselves."

Algernon loves to cook, it's his passion. When he saw the Intown Market going in — which opened November 2009 — he was persistent with co-owner Sulu Jaffer (pictured to the right with Algernon) about opening a deli in the store.

In early 2010 the Intown Market Deli opened with a delicious, creative menu that includes things like the Ricky Ricardo (...a Cuban sandwich) and an amazing three-potato salad.

Algernon will make your food for you — or you can grab-and-go with prepared meals just waiting for you.

Help Crossroads and Algernon ...take a bite out of homelessness. For yourself or group lunches at your office consider the delicious offerings at the Intown Market Deli located at 469 Decatur Street in Atlanta next to the King Memorial Marta Station

